The harbor of Dunkirk is now open, and the lake in that vicinity is clear of ice along the south shore.

Buffalo has donated eleven hundred dollars for Southern relief, and a subscription for the same object is started in Pittsburgh.

The New York Stock Exchange have voted to remove all restrictions as to rates of broker age in Government stocks, and this is expected to result in an increase of business in the public funds.

A movement is already on foot to organize an expedition to visit the newly acquired Russian possessions. Application for the use of Government vessels, in charge of naval officers, will be made.

The mail route from Petroleum Centre to Cherytree was recently awarded to Wm. Staley for $100. Also from the same place to Plummer, to J. W. McClure, for $500. The service is from July 1st, 1867, to June 30th, 1868.

One hundred conversions are reported in the Presbyterian Church of Franklin, Pa. Among the converts are some of the leading lawyers and business men of the county. These converts have found out at last that "by the works of law no man can be justified."

Water works are now being established in Rochester, N. Y. The pipe comes down from Hemlock lake, about twenty-five miles south of the city, and has a bore of sixteen inches. It will take a year to complete the works, and the estimated cost is one and a half millions.

No less than sixteen hundred bills were passed into laws by our State Legislature, a daily average of twenty-six. When the House adjourned some eight hundred bills remained on the calendar, in different degrees of forwardness. Most of the laws passed were not of a general character, but relate either to corporations or are of local application.

A new well was struck about three weeks since on Lease No. 29, of the Bennehoff Run Petroleum Company's property on Bennehoff Run. It is known as well No. 3, and it is producing about fifty barrels of oil per day and increasing. The working interest is controlled by Mr. Arthur Burtis.

The Oil City Register announces that a large number of the citizens of that place contemplate saving their oil for the gold fields of Montana. They propose to take boats at Oil City, and proceed from thence to the head of navigation on the Missouri and Platte Rivers, from whence they will proceed overland to their destination.

The plan of the new Court House says the Meadville Republican may be seated in the Commissioner's office. It was prepared by Mr. John S. Coddington, and combines the improvements of several of the best Court Houses in this State. The work is to be under the superintendence of Mr. Coddington—a sure guarantee that it will be well executed.

This is Holy week, beginning with Palm Sunday, and immediately preceding the festival of Easter—the second great day of the Church—our birth, the other the resurrection of the Saviour. Holy Week, anciently called the great or painful week, or week of sorrows, is observed by the Roman Catholic and Episcopal Church throughout all Christendom with especial devoutness.

The roofers, carpenters and shoemakers of New York, and the mechanics in the glass and iron works in Pittsburgh are on a strike. They are determined to hold till the "wolve comes to the door," while the employers and bosses are equally resolved to make no concessions. The Gazette says there are eight thousand men out of employment in Pittsburgh and vicinity, thus throwing millions of dollars out of circulation.

There is a marked increase in both the passenger and freight traffic of the Atlantic & Great Western Railway lately. The Broad Gauge East Freight Line, between New York, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Cleveland, is doing a fine business. The earnings of the road for March showed an increase of about $40,000 over the corresponding month of last year, and April will undoubtedly be still better.

The Court of Quarter Sessions at Meadville, which convicted John Hickory of murder in the second degree, on Saturday sentenced him to pay a fine of one hundred dollars and the costs of prosecution, and to undergo solitary confinement in the Western Penitentiary for a period of seven years. Simon Brown alias Henry Scott, (colored) convicted of assault and battery, of an aggravated character in Titusville, was sentenced to pay a fine of one hundred dollars and costs and undergo three years imprisonment at hard labor in the Western Penitentiary.

How Will It Affect Us?

If France and Prussia go to war, shall we gain or lose by that catastrophe? Now—days no nations are isolated. If politically independent, still we are bound together by commercial ties; we exchange fabrics and products with each other. Foreign capital is invested here in our public improvements, and one Government securities. We are both debtors and creditors of the trans-Atlantic nations. With England our relations are most intimate, as she is the workshop of the old world, and the chief maritime power of the ocean. With Germany we have more to do as a government than with France; as her people have invested largely in the bonds of the United States. Should war occur, they might throw them upon the market, in order to realize and nec their resources for home loans or resources. Or, on the other hand, foreign capital, sensitive and alarmed at the financial condition or strength which follows in the wake of war, might seek a safer and less hazardous security with us. Certainly, a foreign war would enhance in a large measure the export demand for our breadstuffs and provisions, ordnance, iron-clads, perhaps, and military and naval supplies and equipments. Much would depend upon the duration of the war, and the number of European states involved.

Some think the war would be sharp and brief, like the campaign of last summer. But France is no such mean antagonist as was Austria—Prussia in her last campaign was supported by Italy; but it is doubtful if Victor Emmanuel would not "change sides" at the call of the Emperor, who lately called Venice to the Kingdom of Italy, the gem of the sea, to his diadem. And would not Austria seek to recover what she had lost, when her late conqueror is in an extremity? Napoleon is backed by the French people; his glory, his pride, his contempt and hatred of Teutonic aspirations and supremacy on the Continent is shared by every Frenchman. The issue of hostilities would be doubtful, and therefore protracted, and before it closed would involve every throne from Constantinople to the Straits of Gibraltar, and would leave Europe at last on the threshold of the time predicted by the First Napoleon, when "Europe would either become Republican or French."

Our Sanitary Condition.

One year ago, in his inaugural address to the Common Council, Mayor Angier called their attention to the sanitary condition of the city. He said:

"In view of the terrible scourge which during the past summer and autumn has swept over two continents, suddenly hurrying into America almost the entire populations of different, forms and cities, and which, with gigantic strides, has crossed the broad Atlantic, and is even now upon our shores, I would again call your immediate attention to the possible need of proper drainage and I would earnestly solicit your prompt action in this respect, such a small tend to improve the sanitary condition of the city, as the depositing of quantities of sewage and decaying matter in the streets of the city, and the depositing of sewage in the streets by ordinances be prohibited. The surest safety of all communities from the ravages of the dreaded pestilence is positive cleanliness. All decaying matter, either animal or vegetable, should be immediately gathered up and removed."

In accordance with the above recommendation an ordinance for the abatement of all nuisance and the preservation of the public health, was adopted by the Board at its next meeting. That our citizens may see its scope and bearing, and may have an eye to the execution of this wholesome regulation, we will briefly state that it imposes a fine of Ten Dollars upon all persons

"Who shall cause, suffer or keep any foul vault, cellar, privy, or hog slay; or any dead carcass, animal, putrid or offensive matter, whatsoever, in and upon any occupied premises, within the bounds of said city, in such place or manner as to annoy any citizen thereof, or endanger the health thereof."

The second section imposes a fine of Fifty Dollars upon all persons who shall cause, suffer or keep any such to be done, any foul vault, cellar, privy, or hog slay; or any dead carcass, animal, putrid or offensive matter, whatsoever, either animal or vegetable, upon any vacant lot, or upon any public or private ground, or in or upon any streets, lanes, streams of water or water courses within the city limits."

The Street Commissioner and Police were charged with the enforcement of this ordinance. By virtue of these regulations, one year ago, our citizens co-operated heartily with the authorities, our city was made clean, healthy and attractive before the warm weather set in, and we fortunately escaped the visitation of the cholera. Last week we published Mayor Angier's second inaugural address, in which he recurs again to the matter of public health. We quote:

"The entire body of regulations are epidemic disease, and the health before, can be no guarantee that we are to continue to do so long as we are visited, and though we may hope to escape, still it would seem to become the part of wisdom to exert all possible efforts to guard against the approach of disease. Therefore at your last regular meeting I recommended the appointment of a proper health committee whose duty it shall be to personally visit and inspect every school, in every town, to report all premises which may find anything which may be considered detrimental to health or favorable to the development or spread of contagion. Disease."

These suggestions are timely and important, and we hope to see the same alacrity and thoroughness in the enforcement of the above ordinances, which was manifested by our city authorities and citizens generally one year ago. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, and our safety lies in precautionary measures.

The cholera extends its carnival through a space of three years. Last year was the initial year on the Western Hemisphere. Last year, the scourge touched the seaboard cities, halted, sporadically in lesser inland towns, Harrisburg, Cleveland, etc., but soon visited by the thousands in the profligate duty cities of the West. New York escaped declination only by its efficient Board of Health, and so of Philadelphia. This is the culminating year of the pestilence.
